Proposal of Anglo-French Commission Staggers Some Financiers

OTHERS PREPARED FOR THE PROPOSAL

By Bulletin Leased Wire
NEW YORK, Sept. 12.—The present program of the joint Anglo-French financial commission, it was reported tonight, is to borrow $1,000,000,000 in the United States on straight British and French government bonds without any collateral whatever.

The foregoing was the unanimous opinion tonight of many of the scores of prominent bankers from New York and the chief cities of the country who have visited the commission at its headquarters here during the

As to its correctness the members of the commission declined positively to comment.

All that the commission cared to publish as authoritative was voiced by Leonard H. Goldstein, New York, who said:

Aside from the financial situation, Lord Reading announced that his mission to the United States had

Saw With His Own Eyes Two Canadian Sergeants Crucified

London, Sept. 13.—At the city temple yesterday, Rev. R. J. Campbell spoke hopefully of the present situation in France as a result of the military lines. "I believe," he said, "with the undaunted spirit and cheerful cheerfulness and optimism that prevailed among the English and Canadian troops. So far as the army is concerned, I found no possibility of a rout or a rout of the English troops. I did not see any Canadian who wished to return to the front because he had a debt to pay. This Canadian had seen with his own eyes two Canadian sergeants crucified. I said to him: 'Perhaps they were nailed up after they were dead?' The Canadian replied, 'Sir, you would not have thought so if you had seen their faces.'"

"Our soldiers are more bitter against the Germans than they were at first on account of atrocities inflicted to some times by a number of men together, and which were too horrible to repeat," added Mr. Campbell.

The history of the early settlers of the north has been frequently the topic of tongue and pen—their initial struggle to get a footing in that remote country, their alternate successes and failures, their final triumphs. But there is a bigger history yet to be written—the history of a country rich in grain-growing possibilities.

A great deal of freight has gone in by this route during the present year, and the mines, as well as the timber, are being shipped in a more efficient boat. About fifteen miles up stream, the trip up the Smoky was made in Austin Dart's small gasoline boat, which was the only one leaving that day for points up stream. The Beaver, however, owned by Cooley and the Smoky, is a larger and more powerful boat, and makes a more efficient boat. About fifteen miles up

Went To Fort Vermilion With Husband and Eight Children Over Twenty-Nine Years Ago

Mrs. H. H. Lawrence, Mother of Sheridan Lawrence, Returns to Fort Vermilion After a Stay of Twelve Years in Manitoba—One of Boys Worked Whole Day for Box of Matches in Early Days.

One of the real pioneers of the north country is Mrs. H. H. Lawrence, mother of Sheridan Lawrence, of Fort Vermilion, who a few days ago again left Peace River Crossing on the Hudson's Bay Company's steamer "Athabasca" for the north, after a stay of twelve years in Manitoba.

Mrs. Lawrence went to Fort Vermilion with her husband and eight children in 1886, or twenty-nine years ago. They came from Ontario. At that time there was no railway between Calgary and Edmonton, and they travelled overland via Edmonton, Athabasca and Grand to Peace River Crossing, and thence by the Peace River, down which they floated on a raft in the far north-west.

Mrs. Lawrence joyfully told a Bulletin reporter at Peace River Crossing that she likes the north country, and will be content to stay at Fort Vermilion.

It may be interesting to give the names of the eight children, who made the long trip with their mother and father, as follows: Sheridan, now at Fort Vermilion; James, now at Peace River; John, now at Peace River; William, now at Peace River; Thomas, now at Peace River; Arthur, now at Peace River; and two others, now at Peace River.

The history of Fort Vermilion, as related to the Bulletin by Sheridan Lawrence, when he was at Peace River Crossing, is of interest. The first of the Lawrence family to settle at Fort Vermilion was E. J. Lawrence, Sheridan's father's youngest brother, who with his wife were engaged in connection with the Church Mission there. They went into the country in 1882. Their baby girl now Mrs. Hulseworth, of Calgary, was the first white girl born in the vicinity of the Peace River.

Sheridan Lawrence's father, hearing of the advantages of the country, was anxious to come west, too, and ultimately succeeded in making the trip with his family. At that time there were only five or six houses between Edmonton and Calgary.

Sheridan Lawrence is fond of a "Singer" sewing machine and a "Singer" stove. How they made good is no matter of history, but it was not without hardship. Sheridan, for instance, worked a whole month for a sack of flour, and one day for a box of matches. The first time was $25.00 a hundred. H. H. Lawrence, however, left Vermilion in 1902 and afterwards died at Bellevue, Man.

Sheridan Lawrence's farm consists of about a thousand acres and occupies the whole of a flat, the north side of the river. In addition, he has a sawmill, which last year cut through 100,000 feet of spruce lumber. A grist mill which makes all the flour for the neighborhood. This year he expects a most successful grain crop of 15,000 bushels in the north country. He says that the soil will be about half of that. He says the rainfall during last year was not too heavy for farming, and to ensure the best results he does not have any putting in crop more than one-third of his land each year.

There is a considerable settlement at Fort Vermilion. On the north shore is the store of Reilly Bros., and on the south shore the stores of the Hudson's Bay Co., S. L. Smith, and the "Diamond P." to which with the Church of England and Catholic missions.

Mr. Lawrence has a motor canoe and travelled in a recently to Peace River Crossing in a day. He has his farming and other activities, he does extensively in fur.

HUDSON'S BAY

Correct Clothes For Men & Young Men

$8.75 to $32.50

Not the sombre fabrics, but exclusive patterns that add class, yet do not offend, the most refined taste.
Then, too, it is satisfying to be sure that the fit is perfect—that one need not await the comments of his associates to be sure he has a garment worthy of the price paid.

You'll find our stock replete with every style of fabric and weave that good taste could demand. Garments that define the taste of a gentleman, with just that touch of Fall that makes them comforting without being conspicuous.

Hudson's greys and browns; in small and large checks; and the attractive subdued tartan patterns;
the plain greys and blues.

Nothing about the prices that could create anything but astonishment at their modesty—Hudson's Bay
